The marines look somewhat jaded from overwork in their efforts to please everybody during their Mardi Gras excursions. We heard many expressions favorable to th Memphis river fraternity, and it is evident that every one added new laurels to his al-ready bright wreath. Some of them will carve their names on the peak of fame's pinnacle yet, first thing you know.

Ed Crowell, the famous clerk of the Ruth, is bragging about that packet's recent trip up White river. He says: "We had a grand Mardi Gras excursion from Augusta to Jacksonport, having over one hundred and fifty excursionists, who were well entertained on board, and all seemed well pleased with their trip and enjoyed themselves. The river is bank-full, but has now commenced falling slowly."
